

AXIS BETTER SURRENDER NOW, FDR WARNS

Meandering

By WASH FAYETTE

I am told that fully half of the big blackberry crop in Ohio went to waste this year, due to lack of persons to pick the berries and also due to the gasoline and tire rationing which prevented transportation of the berries to the consumer.

I had little opportunity to observe the situation myself, but what little I saw, the berries, big, black juicy ones, were drying up on the briars with no one to gather them.

This year of all years the blackberry crop should have been saved in its entirety, but no one made an effort to save the crop it seems, and comparatively few of the berries reached markets even this far away from where they were grown.

As result of the war conditions, thousands of bushels of berries apparently have been lost in Ohio.

I have mentioned in this column before how Fayette County men are apparently just about everywhere on the face of the globe where there is something big breaking in a military way.

And I have also mentioned what a small world this is, as local boys meet each other at distant points although totally unaware that they are within thousands of miles of each other until they come face to face.

Just reminds me that recently while Jess Lyon, Jr., son of Mrs. Jane Heath, of Circle Avenue, was leaving a picture show at some point in North Africa, someone grabbed him by the arm and —but let's let Jess tell it in his own words:

"I looked around and who do you think it was? Harold Hooks, (son of George Hooks) one of the boys that graduated the year Sarah did. I was so stunned I could hardly believe it! I told him to come outside so I could see if my eyes were fooling me.

"Can you imagine meeting a boy friend that you hadn't seen in a long while, in North Africa? We went out in front of the theater and had a nice long chat, then we parted. He gave me his address, as he is in the Air Corps stationed at an air base near town and I told him I would come over and visit him soon."

So there is the story in a nutshell!

Here is about the best record of "guessing" that I have ever seen. It came about this summer in connection with the softball games which were played at Wilson Field on five nights a week.

Shortly after they had started in June, George Miraben, who was hired along with Miss Amelia Pensyl by the local YW-YMCA board to direct the summer activities, began putting the names on the scoreboard for the scorekeepers.

The team batting first had its name first on the board so you would be able to tell at a glance which team was batting and the running score.

Miraben would "flip" a coin to see which team would have the choice of "bats" or "field." However, before he "flipped" the coin, he would place the names on the scoreboard.

Only twice in about 50 games did he miss it. He tried to keep his record down to one "miss" but last week he erred again.

That's quite a record and many of the players kept up on the latest "score" of Miraben's and would ask each night if he got them up right.

FIVE-OCEAN NAVY URGED

Party's Executive Chairman
Concedes Collaboration
Program Might Fail

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—(AP)—Clarence Budington Kelland presented to the Republican party today a post-war foreign policy based on United Nations' collaboration, but added that the United States regardless must ring itself with such a defense that "no nation, no coalition of nations, shall be able to penetrate our fortifications or reach our shores."

Kelland, author, executive director of the Republican national committee, and national committeeman from Arizona, conceded that the collaboration program he proposed might fail, leaving this nation alone to face a hostile world, and declared:

"Come war or peace, come upheaval or revolution, come whirlwind or convulsion, come hell or high water, the United States of America must and shall be made impregnable.

"Our nation must build, and maintain, a fleet the most powerful in the world. Not a two-ocean navy but a five-ocean navy. It must provide itself with an air force so numerous and efficient as to stand alone. It must continue a standing army of sufficient size and training. From this day forth our country must not merely be able to prepare for war, but must stand panoplied, equipped to the last button, and ready for war."

Kelland, who is to speak tonight before the New York County Republican committee, made public this prepared address "the zones of safety plan" in advance of the meeting.

He said his plan would be presented at the September 6-7 meeting of the Republican Post-War Advisory Council at Maskin Island, Michigan.

The five points of Kelland's program:

First zone of safety: A trusteeship composed of the United States, Great Britain, Russia and China to administer "the territories."

STEEL WORKERS STRIKE

YOUNGSTOWN, Aug. 25.—(AP)—Thirty-six men who went on strike in Republic Steel Corporation's finishing mill here Monday night in protest over additional work, have been joined by 114 others on sympathy strike, union leaders said today.

William George, representing United Steelworkers here, said the trouble developed when company officials asked roll hands on the 19-inch mill to burn scrap while the mills were in operation. The men have not been working eight hours a day or 40 hours a week on regular jobs, he said.

New Sensations Likely
As Spectacular Spy Plot
Is Unfolded In Detroit

KEY FIGURE in a German espionage ring that has been smashed by the FBI is Miss Grace Buchanan-Dineen (top photo) 34-year-old descendent of French nobility, who allegedly entered this country for espionage purposes October 27, 1941. She was seized by the FBI shortly afterwards and agreed to act as a counter-espionage agent. She was trained in spy work in Budapest, Hungary, by her husband, Guyula Rozinek (lower photo) who was deported from the United States in May, 1941, according to the FBI. Arraigned in Detroit with two of the other five members of the ring, Miss Buchanan-Dineen was placed under $50,000 bond.

DETROIT, Aug. 25.—(AP)—Detroit prepared today for expected new sensations from an alleged spy plot hatched against this and other American munitions centers but which back-fired on its perpetrators in Nazi Germany.

Four women, among them two identified by FBI investigations records as countesses, and a man were held by the Federal Bureau of Investigation while a second man, a member of the American Merchant Marine, remained in FBI custody in New York.

Two of the women, both arrested as "dangerous enemy aliens," were not identified by the FBI. Authoritative sources, however, said one was a member of a prominent Detroit family. The FBI said she was born in Berlin, held the title of countess and had lived here several years. The other countess, who traces

SINATRA TO FIGHT
ATTACHMENT SUIT

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 25.—(AP)—Settlement today of a $17,000 attachment against earnings of crooner Frank Sinatra is expected, says N. Joseph Ross, attorney for Leonard K. Vannerson, who claims a 10 percent share in the singer's income.

Vannerson is manager of Tommy Dorsey's band, with which Sinatra formerly was a vocalist. Dorsey reportedly owns a 33 1-3 interest in the crooner, which has no connection with Vannerson's 10 percent.

Sinatra's comment to newsmen on the attachment was phrased in the third person:

"Sinatra can be quoted that he believes it is wrong for anybody to own a piece of him and collect on it when the owner is doing nothing for Sinatra. Sinatra will fight this to the last ditch."

OTTAWA, Aug. 25.—(AP)—President Roosevelt told the people of Canada today that if Hitler and his generals had attended the Quebec war conference they would have realized that "surrender would pay them better now than later."

The American Chief Executive came here directly from the war council meetings at Quebec, which ended yesterday, to extend a virtual invitation to the enemy in Europe to lay down its arms now, in an address from the Archway of the Peace Tower in the main parliamentary building of the Dominion.

The United State Chief Executive talked of Canadian-American friendship and extolled the part the Dominion is playing in the war. Not a hint did he drop as to the specific matters of war strategy on which he and Prime Minister Churchill of Britain had agreed upon at Quebec.

"But, in due time," he asserted, "we shall communicate the secret information of the Quebec conference to Germany, Italy and Japan. We shall communicate this information to our enemies in the only language their twisted minds seem capable of understanding.

"Sometimes I wish that that great master of intuition, the Nazi leader, could have been present in spirit at the Quebec conference—I am thoroughly glad he was not there in person. If he and his generals had known our plans they would have realized that discretion is still the better part of valor and that surrender would pay them better now than later."

HUSBAND QUESTIONED
ABOUT WIFE'S DEATH

COLUMBUS, Aug. 25.—(AP)—Coroner E. E. Smith called an inquest today into the death of Mrs. Eleanor White Long, 33, owner of racing and show horses, who died in a six-floor plunge from the Neil House.

Her husband, Eli Long, operator of White Star Farms in Delaware County, has been asked to testify.

Detective Chief Leo Phillips said the evidence indicated that Mrs. Long committed suicide. Her husband was in the hotel room from which she plunged yesterday.

Phillips quoted the horse breeder as saying that he protested his wife's use of "sleeping tablets," and that she tore open a window screen and jumped before he could grab her.

Nazi Fighter Opposition Scorned
By Crews Of American Bombers

A U. S. BOMBER BASE IN ENGLAND, Aug. 25.—(AP)—Hagard but happy and with great scorn for Nazi fighter opposition, American crews set their Flying Fortresses down here completing their first England-North Africa round-trip shuttle bombing in which they blasted aviation targets around Bordeaux on the return trip.

The trip home was quiet, with a minimum of flak, the men said, and they termed what little fighter opposition they met "the Germans' second team." They had bombed Regensburg, Germany, on the way out, meeting heavy opposition on that part of the mission.

There was little doubt the men had been in North Africa. They climbed out of their battle-scarred planes wearing fezzes and carrying Arab daggers and other souvenirs.

One crew brought back a small Arabian donkey. They had improvised an oxygen sack for it for the high altitude flight.

Lieut. John F. O'Brien of 329th West Spring Street, Lima, O., bombardier on the Fortress "Dotie J 111," seemed to sum up the whole thing when he said:

"The trip home was damned uninteresting. We just rode along without any trouble and the flak was sparse. The few German fighters we saw certainly weren't very eager. They must have been cadets."

DESPITE ARRIVAL OF NAZI
TROOPS TO HALT SABOTAGE

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 25.—(AP)—More than three German divisions—between 40,000 and 50,000 troops—were reported quartered in Copenhagen today as the Nazis sought to stamp out riots, strikes and mass demonstrations raging against occupation authorities in Denmark.

The German forces, which began moving in from Norway before dawn last Saturday, took over public halls, schools and other buildings as barracks, and posed an immediate food shortage in the Danish capital, Swedish press reports said.

Protest parades against German occupation were reported from Odense, where 5,000 persons, carrying American, British and Danish flags, marched through the streets.

The Danish government has refused to yield administration of justice to the Germans, who have demanded that saboteurs, reported increasingly active, be tried under Nazi law.

So bitter was feeling against the Nazis that girls going with German soldiers were disrobed and red swastikas smeared on their cheeks. Danish patriots plundered the shops of German sympathizers.

Half a dozen Danish cities, in addition to Copenhagen, were reported under a state of emergency as the "people's revolt" mounted and the Danish government refused to yield the administration of justice to the Germans, who have demanded that saboteurs be tried under Nazi law.

Half a dozen Danish cities, in addition to Copenhagen, were reported under a state of emergency as Nazi troops strove to put down what has been called the "people's revolt." Sabotage increased against transportation and industry serving the German war machine, dispatches said, listing 50 persons, 20 of whom were Nazis, killed in recent clashes.

Three-fourths Of Food
Produced In America
Is To Go To Civilians

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—(AP)—President Roosevelt advised American civilians today they have been allocated 75 percent of the nation's food production for the current fiscal year.

In a quarterly lend-lease report to Congress, the President traced current "domestic food shortages" to increased consumption by the armed forces and civilians and said they were not due to any appreciable extent to lend-lease shipments abroad.

Detailing lend-lease food needs which in the case of Russia have necessitated leaving munitions at the dock to cram eatables into shipholds the President added:

"While these allocations (made by the War Food Administration)—WFA—mean that civilians will receive less in the current year than they had in 1942-43 they will on the average get as much food as was available annually in the years 1935-39."

He explained that on an average, WFA has apportioned the American food production as follows: 75 percent to civilians at home, 13 percent to the armed forces, 10 percent to lend-lease, two percent to U. S. territories and special purposes.

The report said that lend lease food exports amounted to only 6 percent of the nation's total food supply in 1942 and that this year "it is likely that we will ship approximately 10 per cent."

President Roosevelt asserted today that except for the responsible fascist leaders "the people of the Axis need not fear unconditional surrender to the United Nations."

In a report placing total lend-lease aid at nearly $14,000,000, the President again promised the feeding of the people of liberated areas and declared the Allies "are striking hard and ready to strike harder" to attain victory.

German armies retreating in Russia, nightmare wreckage in Berlin, and thousands of anti-Nazi demonstrators parading with American flags in Denmark—these highlighted a composite figure of foreboding for Adolf Hitler today.

Swift RAF Mosquito bombers raided Berlin for the second successive night, the British Air Ministry announced, and the Nazis admitted "nuisance" thrusts at the capital.

Radio France quoted the German underground station "Atlantic" as saying at least 73,000 Berlin residents were left homeless as a result of the RAF's heavyweight attack 24 hours earlier.

Germany Jittery

In London, Hitler's appointment of Heinrich Himmler, chief of the dread Gestapo, as German minister of the interior was interpreted as a move to keep the home front in line and prevent a sequel to Germany's collapse at the end of World War I in 1918.

Swiss dispatches from Berlin, hinting at the growth of an anti-Nazi movement inside Germany, said Himmler's elevation was "a warning to all wishing to start new political trends."

Strict German censorship still prohibited transmission of news of the bomb damage in Berlin—where an armada of 700 RAF blockbuster raiders dropped approximately 2,000 tons of explosives in a "Hamburg" assault Monday night—but returning RAF pilots had already told of a four-square-mile inferno left raging in the heart of the German capital.

Reds Batter Germans

The Red army continued today to hammer at off-balance Germans retreating from Kharkov, and a Soviet communique announced new successes all along the line as the Russian forces drove toward Poltava, 75 miles to the southwest and little more than halfway to the Nazis' Dnieper River defense line.

The war bulletin—broadcast from Moscow—said the Nazis, exhausted by the battle for Kharkov, were rushing reserves into the line but that despite this the Red army advanced both south and west of the city, killing 2,000 Germans and disabling 25 tanks in sharp fighting.

The communique indicated the German retreat from Kharkov was reaching proportions of a rout with the Nazi troops abandoning considerable war material.

Nazi Losses Heavy

German losses in armored equipment and planes were reported running high as the Nazis recklessly expended their strength in a vain effort to stem the Russian advance. The communique said that on Monday alone the Red army had destroyed 77 tanks and 106 planes in fighting on all fronts.

The Kharkov area continued to be the focal point of the Russian advance. The fall of the city gave the Soviets several objectives to aim at, but the most likely choice was Poltava with Kiev, Ukrainian capital 250 miles to the west on the Dnieper, as

WOMEN ASKED TO HELP WITH WAR LOAN DRIVE

House-to-house Canvass To Be Made by Air Raid Wardens, Under Plan

All women air raid wardens were asked to make a house to house canvass of the homes in their territory, contacting the wage earner of each home to ask him, or her, to put two weeks wages into extra War Bonds during the month of September. The request was made by Mrs. Martha Reiff at a meeting of more than 100 women in Memorial Hall Tuesday afternoon.

This canvass is aimed to reach every house in the city, Mrs. Reiff said, and is one phase of the Third War Loan drive to begin on September 9. Most women, Mrs. Reiff asserted, expressed a desire to cooperate in the drive.

The September drive for Fayette County is $1,018,000 and is to be derived from non-banking sources during the month of September alone. The $1,025,000 raised in the April drive from non-banking sources was the result of six months campaigning. In April alone $704,075 was raised. The short time allotted to reach the present goal impels a thorough house-to-house campaign, F. E. Hill, Fayette County War Finance Committee chairman said.

Secretary Morgenthau will deliver an important speech on war financing over the Mutual network Wednesday, August 25, from 9:15 to 9:30 P. M., Eastern War Time. This broadcast will be the opening gun of the publicity barrage for the Third War Loan which starts September 9. These southern Ohio stations are carrying the broadcast: WKRC, Cincinnati; WHKC, Columbus; WPAV, Portsmouth.

The women's organizations participating in the previous War Bond campaigns will continue to function, Mrs. Reiff emphasized, with the assistance of the women air raid wardens in the canvassing.

Arm bands were issued to all women at the meeting, Mrs. Reiff said, and air raid signals were re-explained. Several of the women wardens reported unwillingness of women in their territory to obey orders, Mrs. Reiff pointed out, adding that the women air raid wardens had as much authority to give orders during an air raid as any other Civilian Defense worker and that they should be obeyed immediately.

F. E. Hill, chairman of the War Finance Committee here, said that he planned to call a meeting of all the chairmen on the committee sometime next week to distribute selling kits, identification buttons and other information to them for distribution to every worker on the committee.

In comparing the present drive with the Third Liberty Loan in September, 1918, Hill pointed out that the sales then were $1,109,000 in Fayette County. "If we increase proportionately with the increase shown in banking sales in 1918 and 1943, we should top our present goal of $1,018,000."

Hill stressed the importance of "two weeks wages in extra bonds" purchase by every wage earner as vital to the reaching of the goal. He explained that these bonds are to be other than the bonds regularly bought in each household.

When the canvassing forces are complete, about 450 workers will be on the job in Fayette County, Hill said.

LEGION POST IS TO MEET IN NEW HOME

Nominations Committee To Report; Amendments To Be Voted

The Paul H. Hughey Post 25 of the American Legion will hold its first regular meeting in its new headquarters on Fayette Street Thursday night at 8:30, R. B. Tharp, adjutant, said today.

"The meeting will give members an opportunity to look over the improvements made as well as to conduct the business," Tharp explained.

A report from the nominating committee will be read at the meeting, Tharp said. The nominating committee selects 20 candidates for the executive committee from which 11 are elected to the committee. These 11 men organize the committee as a board of directors which is the official administrative body of the organization. Election of the committee will be September 7, Tharp indicated.

Amendments to the constitution slated for voting will authorize the Legion to own property, a condition not provided for in the constitution at present. The Legion is a non-profit corporation under the laws of Ohio and the organization must be authorized to hold any property, Tharp explained.

Plans for the formal opening of the new headquarters will also be discussed, Tharp said. He indicated that the opening would probably be the second or third week-end in September.

Re-decoration is almost completed, according to Tharp, except for finishing the large room and kitchen on the first floor and placing the furniture in all the rooms.

"The goal of the United Nations," he said, "is to permit liberated peoples to create a free political life of their own choosing and to attain economic security. These are two of the great objectives of the Atlantic Charter."

The lend-lease report, for the quarter ending July 31, showed that lend-lease aid to Russia through June 30 totaled $2,444,000,000 and July shipments to that country were at a "high level." The August volume "is expected to be the highest for any month since the program began," as far as Russia is concerned, the report added.

It said that the United States sent more lend-lease planes to Russia than to any other country and that 57 percent of all goods sent there have been munitions such as airplanes, tanks, and guns.

The report also disclosed that the size of the American merchant fleet has increased 250 percent since Pearl Harbor and is growing at the rate of five new ships every 24 hours.

"Production of ships," it said, "is proceeding at such a pace that we have had difficulty in supplying adequately trained and skilled crews to operate them."

The President in a letter transmitting the report as required by Congress, declared that until the day of unconditional surrender the United Nations "will continue with the force of all their power to hit the enemy."

MELVIN TO SELL HAMPSHIRE FRIDAY

First Sale Held Since Melvin Began Breeding

Fifty Hampshire hogs will be sold at auction at the Fairgrounds next Friday by W. A. (Red) Melvin. The sale will be in the new sheep barn and is slated to begin at 1 P. M.

This is the first sale Melvin has had since he began breeding in 1939. Almost all the hogs offered are eligible to register, he said. Melvin has not showed his Hampshires anywhere but hopes to begin his showing at the Fayette County Fair next year.

Melvin has between 400 and 500 head of stock. His main herd boar, out of Good Will Promoter, was grand champion of the National Type Conference at Urbana, Ill.

A chicken dinner will be served before the sale at the Fairgrounds by the ladies of the Sugar Grove Church.

The August volume "is expected to be the highest for any month since the program began," as far as Russia is concerned, the report added.

It said that the United States sent more lend-lease planes to Russia than to any other country and that 57 percent of all goods sent there have been munitions such as airplanes, tanks, and guns.

The report also disclosed that the size of the American merchant fleet has increased 250 percent since Pearl Harbor and is growing at the rate of five new ships every 24 hours.

"Production of ships," it said, "is proceeding at such a pace that we have had difficulty in supplying adequately trained and skilled crews to operate them."

The President in a letter transmitting the report as required by Congress, declared that until the day of unconditional surrender the United Nations "will continue with the force of all their power to hit the enemy."

The lend-lease report, for the quarter ending July 31, showed that lend-lease aid to Russia through June 30 totaled $2,444,000,000 and July shipments to that country were at a "high level." stories and people and economy of our enemies, the bankrupt nations of the earth, and of other nations who shall find themselves in similar plight by reason of the war." France would be admitted to full trusteeship when able to function as a great power.

Second: A concord among the victor nations "for offensive or defensive joint action directed against any nation threatening to breach the peace."

Third: "A permanent defensive alliance between the United States and Great Britain" which "shall provide that the two great democracies, the two great English-speaking nations, shall act as one in case of attack upon either by any nation or combination of nations... permanent and open-ly declared to the world."

Fourth: "A concord, an entente among the nations of North America and the nations of South America—between Canada, the United States on the north and our sister republics of the southern continent... both military and economic... A policy of American solidarity against any non-American nation threatening the territorial rights of any American nation, large or small."

Fifth: "As our fifth and final zone of safety we must possess, by friendly negotiation if we may, by occupation if we must, those points, those islands, those bases which will perfect the fortification of the United States... What we acquire we must fortify. We must create naval bases, flying fields, fortresses imposing in strength. Not to be held as threats against the peace of any nation, but as guarantees of the peace of our own nation."

In presenting the fifth zone, Kelland said: "Even the most rabid global thinker can not charge isolationism or improper nationalism if at last, in fifth place, I bring up the safety and security of our own country—our safety and security individually; if, finally, I desire as a citizen of the United States to take some selfish thought as to our own people, our own broad lands and lakes and rivers and mountains. If I suggest a fifth zone of safety it is as insurance of our own house against fire."

CONSERVE ELECTRICITY

to conserve COAL—manpower—transportation

It takes a pound of coal to manufacture a kilowatt hour of electricity. A hundred-watt lamp lighted ten hours consumes a kilowatt hour. Conversely, a hundred-watt lamp turned OFF for ten hours SAVES a kilowatt hour and saves the pound of coal. If every one of our more than 120,000 customers will save just that much, 60 tons of coal will be conserved for war purposes. Use plenty of light with which to read and sew and work, but eliminate all unneeded lighting.

How you can SAVE ELECTRICITY

Turn off lights when not in use, and when leaving home or office.

Don't turn on the toaster or the iron before you are ready to use it. Turn it off when not in use.

Turn off the radio when no one is listening.

Waste in War is a Crime. Do Not Waste Electricity Just Because It is Not Rationed.

her lineage to French nobility, is beautiful Grace Buchana-Dineen, 34-year-old cosmopolitan with a wide social acquaintanceship. She was held in $50,000 bond on a charge of giving war information to Germany.

It was she, the FBI said, who, when discovered in her activities, cooperated with the federal authorities to the end that the German espionage got only the information which this government "desired." FBI Chief J. Edgar Hoover said army and navy intelligence scrutinized all her transmissions.

The wife of Dr. Fred William Thomas, 44, Detroit obstetrician who was similarly charged, told reporters she was "stunned."

Pointing out that she and her husband were born in the United States, Mrs. Thomas said "I refuse to believe that there is a word of truth in these charges against him."

Dr. Thomas pleaded innocent. Miss Buchana-Dineen and Mrs. Theresa Wassertauer Behrens, 44, born in Yugoslavia of German parents, stood mute and innocent pleas were entered for them. U. S. Commissioner J. Stanley Hurd ordered all held in $50,000 bond for examination next month.

The fourth defendant, Seaman Bertrand Steuart Hoffman, 27, was in FBI custody in New York.

AXIS BETTER SURRENDER NOW, ROOSEVELT SAYS AFTER WAR CONFERENCE

duced by Prime Minister Mackenzie King of Canada as "an undaunted champion of free men, and a mighty leader of the forces of freedom in a world at war."

Thousands of cheering persons, from the humble folk of Ottawa to the highest dignitaries of state, church and local government, heard his words. So did other millions around the world to whom the address was broadcast.

Canadians and Americans have fought side by side, Mr. Roosevelt said, in a war violently forced upon them "by criminal aggressors who measure their standards of morality by the extent of the death and the destruction that they can inflict upon their neighbors."

Today, in devout gratitude, he added, the two peoples celebrate a brilliant victory won in Sicily and rejoice in the heading retreat of the Japanese from Kiska Island, their last foothold in the new world.

Absolute victory in the war, the President predicted, will give greater opportunities to the world, since the winning of the conflict itself is proving that concerted action can accomplish things.

"Surely," he said, "we can make strides toward a greater freedom from want than the world has yet enjoyed. Surely by unanimous action in driving out the outlaws and keeping them under heel forever, we can attain a freedom from fear of violence."

"I am everlastingly angry only at those who assert vociferously that the four freedoms and the Atlantic Charter are nonsense because they are unattainable. If they had lived a century and a half ago they would have sneered and said that the Declaration of Independence was utter piffle."

"If they had lived nearly a thousand years ago they would have laughed uproariously at the ideals of Magna Carta."

"And if they had lived several thousand years ago they would have derided Moses when he came from the mountain with the Ten Commandments."

The great councils on Canadian soil, Mr. Roosevelt declared, look to the future conduct of the war and to the years of building a new progress for mankind.

Several times the Chief Executive applied a favorite epithet—gangsters—to the Axis.

"We spend our energies and our resources and the very lives of our sons and daughters," he said, "because a band of gangsters in the community of nations declines to recognize the fundamentals of decent, human conduct."

"We have been forced to call out the sheriff-posse to break up the gang in order that gangsterism may be eliminated in the community of nations."

"We are making sure—absolutely, irrevocably sure—that this time the lesson is driven home to them once and for all. We are going to be rid of outlaws this time."

"Every one of the United Nations believes that only a real and lasting peace can justify the sacrifices we are making, and our unanimity gives us confidence in seeking that goal."

For MacKenzie King, who recently has encountered some political upsets in Canada, the President reserved a portion of his address. He asked the Prime Minister, whom he has known since undergraduate days at Harvard University, to thank the people of Canada for him for their abundant hospitality.

From Parliament Hill, Mr. Roosevelt went on a drive around the city. The schedule stops were at:

The nearby National War Memorial to lay a wreath in honor of Canadian dead of the last World War.

At Prime Minister MacKenzie King's home at outlying Kensington.

the big goal of the summer offensive.

In the Donets basin, southwest of Voroshilovgrad, where the Russians previously reported they had reached the Nazi lines, the Red army broke up German counterattacks and captured several towns, the Soviet communiqué declared.

On the Leningrad front Russian troops were said to have killed about 400 Germans in local actions, the bulletin said.

Japs in Last Stand

Artillery firing from the New Georgia jungle on Japanese making a last stand at Bairoko and from New Guinea mountain ridges on other Japanese in a last stand at Salamaua, accent the fact the offensive remains firmly in Allied hands.

As the current drive which opened June 30 neared the end of the second month, a spokesman for Gen. Douglas MacArthur reported progress today on both flanks of the 750-mile-long battle arc.

On New Georgia, American jungle troops who captured the Munda airfield August 5, have brought up artillery to blast away at the Japanese garrison holding that Kula Gulf harbor.

On New Guinea, where Allied troops have the Salamaua air-drome almost within their grasp, Australian troops advanced north of the Francisco River, while mountain artillery behind them shelled the defenders.

Draft Board Here Ready To Take Care Of Veterans

THE WAR TODAY

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

Confidence at War Council Is Apparent Although Few Hints of Plans Are Given

This columnist once consulted the Delphic Oracle at the shimmering base of Mount Parnassus in Greece, and came away with more concrete information than was disclosed by Messrs. Roosevelt and Churchill in their full-dress press conference on the promontory of Quebec at the close of their momentous parley.

The Allied pair did a highly polished job of playing their cards awfully close to their chests—each after his own fashion. F. D. R. went through the ordeal quite impassively, so we are told by Associated Press Correspondent John M. Hightower, while the Prime Minister fidgeted.

The puckish-faced John Bull crossed and recrossed his legs, loosened his collar, mopped his forehead, and "once he got a firm hold on a half-smoked cigar and hurled it far out over the bluffs of the St. Lawrence River." Having observed Mr. Churchill at close range in London over many years, I wonder whether he really was fidgety, or whether he was putting on one of his little shows for the boys. I have a suspicious mind.

Both men made smooth speeches, but neither disclosed much. However, joking aside, we didn't want them to do a lot of talking for the benefit of the enemy.

What really matters is that the confidence radiated supreme confidence, and we know from past experience that another big job has been well done. The two leaders did emphasize that the Allied war machine is grinding ahead and that great events are impending. That's something satisfactory to get ahead with.

One of the most interesting—and likely important—points brought out was that since the Quebec conversations had much to do with planning the offensive against Japan, Russia wasn't invited to participate, because the Soviet union isn't at war with the Nipponese. The fact that Russia and Japan are not fighting each other may mean much to us when we come to final grips with the Mikado's forces. Our greatest need will be air-bases, and if we aren't able to use Russian soil we shall have to carve bases out of Chinese territory now held by the enemy.

Well, while we should like to hear Moscow say that Siberian air bases would be available for the offensive against Japan, it's likely Marshal Stalin would be equally happy to hear that a "second front" is being opened in western Europe. Maybe he will but in that matter the Sphinx twins held their peace. That did indicate, however, that a conference among the big three—Russia, America and Britain—is projected, and that's of vast importance for complete understanding.

Speaking of the second front, F.D.R. introduced a line of thought which interested the press greatly. He pointed out that offensives can't be put into effect over night, and cited that what was planned in June of 1942 wasn't effective until November. That was the invasion of North Africa. The plans made at Casablanca in January of 1943 didn't materialize until Tunisia and Sicily.

With that the president paused. He didn't mention that he and Churchill met in Washington in May and planned fresh adventures, which haven't yet developed. However we undoubtedly are on the verge of something big in Europe—something devised in the May conference. And of course, the Quebec meeting

GARRETT RAMEY REEMPLOYMENT COMMITTEEMAN

Men Released from Service Being Put in Jobs as Good As Those They Left

A veteran of two world wars, who has learned both strict military discipline necessary to make all-encompassing regulations work and the sympathetic understanding for the fighting man dropped jobless into civilian life, through experience, today was seeing to it that men discharged from the service not only find a place in the routine of workaday life at home but that they don't take advantage of the "break" their Uncle Sam says they are entitled to.

Garrett A. Ramey holds a commission from the President as the reemployment committeeman for Fayette County's draft board and it is his job to see to it that returning servicemen, honorably discharged, receive the same position he left when he went to war, a comparable or better position or special training at government expense.

Ramey was recommended for this post by the draft board and was appointed by Gen. Lewis Hershey, head of the selective service system, acting for the President.

He has been going about his work as the personal representative of returning veterans for several weeks so quietly that few knew of his appointment or even that the government had such a plan for rehabilitation in operation. Already he has placed 35 discharged servicemen in jobs "as good or better than" those they left. Ramey regards his work in a confidential or personal light and does not go into details—except to the draft board to which he reports regularly.

The plan is working out unusually well, he says, but admits the big job will come when the war is over and the nearly 1,500 Fayette County boys now in the service come marching home. Fitting this many young men into civilian life, he says, will be no simple matter. But, then, he added, he has the law behind him when he insists that if a veteran wants his old job back, his employer is required to put him in it with full seniority rights unless the employer's circumstances have so changed as to make this impossible or unreasonable.

Up to now, however, Ramey's chief concern has been the replacement of men discharged from the service for disability, age and occupational reasons. The procedure, as he described it, is simple. The serviceman is required to present himself to the draft board in uniform within five days and apply for reemployment. From there on Ramey, as the reemployment committeeman for the board, takes charge of the situation. The veteran is placed in a job first and then from time to time his status is checked, for one of his obligations is to stick to his job. Failure of the serviceman, under most present conditions, to live up to his obligations leaves him open to reinduction into the service. With typical reticence, Ramey said only it had been necessary to send "only a very small minority" back into service.

Because of his background, the reemployment committeeman here is in a position to see both sides of the picture. He said he knew what a problem returning servicemen faced in getting settled in civilian life and that he could understand why they might want to celebrate briefly their release from strict military restrictions but on the other hand he showed no disposition to deal other than sternly with those who fail to live up to their obligations.

Ramey served for more than two years during the first World War and when he returned from combat overseas he wore two wound stripes on his sleeve. And he still bears the scars of battle. When the United States was plunged into the second World War, he enlisted as a paratrooper and served until injured in making a parachute jump just before completing his training. He was discharged and returned to Washington C. H. to take over the active management of the Try Me Taxi service here which Mrs. Ramey had been running during his period of service.

Ramey quoted from an article by Cpl. H. N. Oliphant in a recent issue of "Yank", the army weekly, to describe how the selective service system "works in reverse" as he put it. This is the way Cpl. Oliphant described the reemployment service to the men in the service:

"Less than three months ago on a makeshift cot of planks and dry grass in an improvised field hospital somewhere in the South Pacific, a young corporal from Illinois lay critically wounded. "Although he knew he would eventually recover, the future looked pretty black. An army doctor had told him that as soon as his condition permitted, he would be shipped back to the States for further hospitalization. Then, upon his recovery, he would get a certificate of disability discharge—the same CDD and GI might get at any time whether he is taking an azimuth on a Jap in New Guinea, straffing the Nazis in North Africa or dodging jeeps in a U. S. replacement center.

"The soldier looked down at his right hand. It had got in the way of a Jap slug and two fingers and a thumb had been lopped off. As a former skilled instrument maker, he knew he would never work again at the only trade he knew.

"I got a great future," he said, staring at the three stumps. "With a mitt like that I'll never be able to make a living."

"The doctor tried to reassure him: 'It's tough, I know. But you'll make it all right. I'll bet you have a good job lined up for you even before you're discharged.'"

"Yeah? Who's gonna toss off that miracle?"

"The Selective Service System."

"The doctor wasn't kidding. Today, scarcely three months after he was wounded, the ex-corporal is back in civvies, playing a newly mastered trade in an essential war industry, living in circumstances better than those he left to do the olive drab."

This story, Ramey said, gives an idea of how the Selective Service usually well, he says, but admits the big job will come when the war is over and the nearly 1,500 Fayette County boys now in the service come marching home. THE WALLACE THEORIES

The voice of Vice President Wallace has produced some high octane economic theories but this official should be more careful to see that they don't explode in his face.

The Vice President said in a recent address in Iowa that large corporations believed in a policy of "scarcity economics" and that they "always believed in holding down production for profit."

He added: "There's only one program under which agriculture, labor, and, in my opinion, business as well, can prosper after the war, and that's all-out production."

The record shows that Mr. Wallace was Secretary of Agriculture from 1933 to 1940. It was during that period that the program was begun which resulted in paying farmers for failing to raise certain crops—it was during this period that there took place the slaughter of the little pigs. If that was not a period of promoting scarcity for profit, no period of the kind ever existed.

Mr. Wallace would have a difficult time to prove that large corporations believe in a policy of "scarcity economics."

Take the automobile industry. It turned out cars for the American people at lower and lower prices until the counties, states and nation were beside themselves trying to build roads fast enough to accommodate the growing number of automobiles.

Government showed a lack of imagination in planning highways for the increasing number of automobiles, but the automobile manufacturing industry certainly never could be accused of trying to keep its product out of the hands of the American public.

Nor did the auto manufacturers ever stage a big bonfire and burn a half million cars as a means of raising the price of the machines.

There is no parallel in industry for the slaughter of the pigs.

FADING OUT

The formerly grand and elegant word "empire" bids fair to become obsolete, or at least obsolescent, as a result of the present war and the international developments that are certain to follow. It has been a good old word for a long time, and the institution for which it stands has been accepted. But it now is outliving its usefulness, and its acceptability. The word will become unnecessary, except in the history books of the future.

The war was promulgated to put new life into the idea of empire. Imperialists emerged here and there like earth worms after a rain. Their efforts to restore ancient empires or create new ones, have brought vast worry into the world, but they no longer are wanted, nor any of their works. Empires, from this point on, will be purely historical in their interest and impotent as organisms.

The three empires, whose ideology was hatched out in the brains of three insane imperialists, are shrinking to the size of minor states, under the impact of the democratic idea supported by a

One-Minute Test

1. During a court trial what does a lawyer mean when he says he will "take an exception"?
2. Under the Social Security Act, does a person over 65, otherwise entitled to benefit payments, lose those benefits if he has other means of support after he stops working?

Hints on Etiquette

With fruit and vegetables so precious these days, the housewife should be careful when marketing not to handle any of the foods carelessly. The old saying, "Lady, if you must pinch the fruit, pinch the coconut," is still good in marketing etiquette.

Words of Wisdom

A good disposition is more valuable than gold; for the latter is the gift of fortune, but the former is the dower of nature.—Alderson.

Today's Horoscope

If your birthday is on this date you have a forceful, strong personality. You have good ideas and the judgment to execute them efficiently. You have deep feelings but do not show them. You have a flexible nature and fastidious tastes. You are slow in liking people and, if you marry at all, it will not be early in life. At 12:30 A. M., you may be amazed at the exceptional clarity of your psychic intuitions. Don't try to convince anyone that you are right at 2:30 A. M. There is a possibility of subterfuge even in your own thinking, due to the illusive Neptune vibrations. Around 3:38 A. M., you may experience new hope and optimism about your job.

One-Minute Test Answers

1. He is registering disagreement with the judge on a point of law on which an appeal may later be argued.
2. He gets the benefits regardless of other means of support.

mighty coalition of nations alive with that idea and ideal. The one so-called empire in that coalition, Great Britain, is and has been an empire in name only, even though its premier has declared that he has no mandate to dissolve it. The British empire, as a matter of fact, does not exist.

Something far more useful and in harmony with the spirit of the modern age already has taken its place. There is a British Federation of practically autonomous commonwealths or states. It is a powerful and united federation as has been demonstrated in this war, but the ties that bind are sentimental more than they are legal. The real test of its cohesive power will come in the long years that follow this war. It probably will live. The English people have too much intelligence to let it disintegrate. But in the old sense imperialism is dead and is in the process of being buried by the might of United Nations' arms.

ANOTHER FREEDOM

The Atlantic Charter does not proclaim nor does our Bill of Rights guarantee this freedom, yet we have retained it intact because, in our most pessimistic moments, we have faith that nobody bred in democracy will choose anything else. It is freedom to listen to the other fellow's arguments.

It must shock authoritarians to read that in the midst of the Sicilian campaign our soldiers and sailors listened freely to German and Italian propaganda programs. Can you imagine any German, Japanese or Italian newspaper carrying, as a regular feature, a list of enemy shortwave stations with their megacycle position and the hours when they broadcast "news" doctored for foreign consumption?

Such things as this, among many other, make it good to be an American.

Some Allergies Stimulated by Sense of Smell Alone

come out with an eruption. "Be down wind from it," they say. In other words, it is air-borne.

There is no inherent reason why small particles of the plant should not be disseminated in this way and we know that it takes only minute amounts to cause the allergic reaction, but we have always been skeptical that such minute amounts as could be wafted through the air would do it.

But we may have reason to change our minds because Dr. A. J. Horech, of Cleveland, shows us that even food odors will awaken the allergic eczema of infants and children.

These eruptions on the poor little babies are pitiful and mysterious enough. Here is a baby born in a household where everyone else is healthy, where it eats the same food its brothers and sisters did, yet from an early age has its skin continuously covered by an itchy, scaly eruption that nearly drives it crazy with discomfort. We feel almost certain now it is due to sensitiveness (allergy) to certain foods and by making tests, these can be identified and eliminated from the diet with consequent improvement.

Allergy of Baby

This child I am talking about was 13 months old and had had eczema since two months. It was found to be sensitive to a number of substances—egg, wheat, tomato and chicken, for instance. By proper elimination the eczema was cleared up, but every once in a while there would be a flare-up which could not be explained by a lightening of the surveillance on diet.

The mother noticed that these flare-ups occurred whenever a chicken was brought home from market. The doctor was skeptical, so she gave him a demonstration.

When he got to the home, the infant's skin was in excellent condition. Within a few minutes after the fully-dressed fowl was brought into the baby's presence, he became irritable and began to scratch violently. Blotchy spots and hives appeared on the face, back and abdomen.

Child's Sensitivity

Another case was in a child old enough to make accurate observations—12 years. She had been treated for some time for eczema and among other things was found to be sensitive to egg. She had been quite well and comfortable when one day she attended cooking school and when some eggs were brought in she became itchy and uncomfortable and had to leave the room. The next day she had a full-blown eruption.

Such is the evidence. It is not too improbable. Psychologists tell us odors are caused by the impingement on the olfactory membrane of minute, but actual, particles of the substance smelled. When the objection is made that these particles are very small, we can remind you that the pollen grain of a ragweed is small too—it can be seen only under the microscope. Yet probably one of these will give your friend who is subject to hay fever a fit of sneezing and eye watering that is a caution to observe.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
B. K.:—Is there really any value in doing exercises to reduce?

Answer: This is a controversial question. Dr. L. H. Newburgh, of Ann Arbor, reduces his patients entirely by locking them in a room so he has absolute control over their food intake. It is certain that exercise alone won't reduce, for the simple reason that the more you exercise, the more appetite you have and the more you eat. I believe that a restricted diet is the basis of all reduction cures.

R. V. B.: Does the size of a person's head have anything to do with how intelligent he is? Is a person with a large head less intelligent than a person with a small head?

Answer: No relation whatever. Mussolini has a large head and he hasn't proved too bright. On the contrary a large head doesn't necessarily mean low intelligence.

CHAPTER FORTY-ONE

THERE THEY stood, Marty and the little boy, holding hands, each wearing that sort of sheepish grin, with almost the entire household, Karen, her father, Cousin Ellen and Paul and the newspaperman, Roy Atkins, waiting for an explanation. Karen was not nearly so interested in that as she was in the fact that Buffy was back—and alive and well. Besides that, nothing else was very important to her. That put an end to the terrible fears, the horrible nightmare.

"I tell you I didn't kidnap him," Marty said, as if saying it not for the first time, but in repeated denial. "What should I want to do a thing like that for? Why would I have brought him back, as soon as I could, if I had?"

"You don't expect us to believe the story you cooked up, do you?" Paul asked, as if he had said much that same thing before, too. This must have been the commotion Karen had heard going on before she jumped up from the dinner table to investigate for herself. "A little kid like Buffy could hardly find his way clear across town, across the bridge even, to your trailer camp. Not all by himself, not unless you . . ."

"So that's it!" Karen broke in. Light was beginning to seep through her jumbled emotions, clarifying things. Buffy had gone to see Marty, as indeed Karen had gone herself, when Marty had not come to see him. "You said yourself, Paul, that probably Buffy had run away, that all boys did such things at times . . ."

"I agree with Paul that there still may be something fishy about this," Roy Atkins put in, pursing his lips. His eyes looking Marty over carefully. "There's something about you . . . as if I'd seen you before this . . . what did you say your name was, mister?"

"I didn't say," Marty returned quietly, but the grin had left his face. He looked as if he were beginning to get angry and as if, when he did, which was seldom, people had better watch what they said or what questions they asked. "I am a friend of the family, I hope, certainly of Karen's, and of Buffy's."

"I warned Karen," Paul began, his dark face flushing up, too, his dark eyes smoldering.

"There's nothing to warn me about," Karen did the interrupting this time. "Marty is my friend, and Buffy's. I guess there is something 'fishy' about it, though, as you suggested, Mr. Atkins. I had promised Buffy he could go spend a few days with Martin at the camp because they had planned a fishing trip. But first one thing and then another put the plans off. I suppose Buffy got tired, as a little boy would, of waiting. I suppose he thought he would just go. Was that it, dear?"

She smiled at the little boy now, for the grin had left his face, too, and he looked frightened and bewildered.

"We can simply say Buffy was

Now he nodded his head emphatically, but he still clutched Marty's hand tightly, not letting go of it to cross to Karen, although she did not look as if she were going to scold very much. Marty had made him realize he had done something wrong. That was why he had made him come straight home again, stopping only long enough to get him a sandwich and a cool drink, since Buffy had been tired and hungry and hot after his long adventure. But even Marty had not made him think what he had done was as important and as awful as it now appeared with all these people staring and talking.

"Well, young man," Jim Bell cleared his throat which seemed to have got tight, although there was a suspicion of a twinkle in his tired eyes, "you certainly managed to give us a scare, although I'm thankful that's all it now amounts to—and grateful to you, young man," he gave Marty a nod and a look that acknowledged their acquaintance, if not long friendship, "for bringing the boy home safely."

"Still looks like a story somewhere to me," the newspaperman murmured, his gaze still fastened intently on Marty. "And of course it will be necessary for me to turn one in—a story of some sort—since the broadcast has been put through by now. Did you say your name is Marty?"

"I didn't say," Marty replied in that same quiet tone, but his face now was stony, unrevealing. "I tried to make Buffy realize he had done the wrong thing, sir." He addressed himself deliberately to the boy's grandfather, ignoring the other two men. "I think he does now. I told him how worried you and his aunt would be. If there had been any means of sending a message, I should have done so; I brought him back as soon as possible. And—in case you feel he must be punished further—I might add it is partly my fault. As Karen said, I had promised the boy a fishing trip. I had neglected to explain we would still carry that promise through and I suppose, as Karen said, too, a fellow, no matter how little or how big, gets impatient when such pleasure is put off too long and so takes matters rather into his own hands."

"I understand," Jim Bell's eyes were twinkling unmistakably now. "I'm something of a fisherman myself. And if Buffy is made to understand how worried all of us were, that we thought he was lost, or hurt, sent out a radio broadcast, were about to inform the police, I guess maybe he will be punished sufficiently and promise never to do such a thing again."

"I think so, sir. And I am glad you did not inform the police," Marty's jaw was grim.

"Why not?" Paul asked lightly. "And why don't you give my friend, Mr. Atkins, your full name? Because you know he is a newspaperman? As he just said, some explanation will have to be given about it."

"We can simply say Buffy was

"Thank you, Mr. Bell," said politely. "Another time, perhaps. And I hope, Karen, when you see Buffy has earned it, that we still can have that fishing trip to gether."

"You certainly may!" She flashed her warmest smile at him. "I see now I'm at fault, too. I've been so busy with war work, so engrossed in my own personal affairs, that I guess I've neglected Buffy lately. I hope you do come over very soon again—to see all of us."

Post-War Plane Is Carpenter's Interest

By JOHN L. SPRINGER

BAYONNE, N. J.—A 53-year-old Russian-born carpenter, Abe Rogow, has joined the big-time post-war planners by publishing his own proposals for world peace, complete with map.

The heavy-set, soft-spoken immigrant, who came to this country in 1914, calls his sixteen page opus "A Plan For Immediate and Lasting Peace." He decided to give it to the world one day nailing a plank, and while it hasn't made quite the splash of the Four Freedoms or Union Now, he still has hopes.

Unlike some of the more publicized peace plans, Rogow would send the Atlas people in a whirl by drawing up an entirely new world map. "Who would dare to make up a patch-up job of this greatest opportunity in the world's history just because certain people's feelings might be hurt?" he asks.

Rogow blueprints the new world like a house. He would give it seven major tenants—United States of North America (U. S., Canada, Greenland, Iceland), South America, Europe, Africa, Australia, Russia, and federations in Asia and Mongolia.

He favors movable partitions between these superstates, so that border groups like the Balkan countries or Finland could join whichever federation suits their fancy. Peoples like the Irish, French, Alsatians and Albanians, and even parts of them, would be permitted to hole up in their own private cubby-holes but still remain under the federation's roof.

League of Women Voters Has Foreign Policy Quiz

"Choose Your Foreign Policy"

is the title of a quiz now being distributed to the members of the Fayette County League of Women Voters by Mrs. Jean S. Nisley, president of the league.

The quiz has ten questions and is designed to encourage people to make up their own minds what they want for the United States after the war and how they want the government to go about getting it, Mrs. Nisley said.

Ten points are given for each correct answer on the quiz. "If you make 100," Mrs. Nisley says, "you base your foreign policy on the responsibility of each country, including the United States, to look out for its own interests, first, but you recognize that short-sighted national policies will fail. You want the United States to make agreements with other countries when such agreements will serve our interests. You believe that world-wide agreements are now indicated and that the United States has a responsibility for promoting such arrangements. You understand that no world organization can succeed without the combined efforts of the four great powers. You also understand that even with such an organization the United States cannot sleep at the switch, but must be alert to adapt its policy to changed conditions."

The quiz, "Choose Your Foreign Policy," is given below. Answer each question "yes" or "no" and turn to page two to determine your score.

1. The object of a nation's foreign policy is to protect its people and promote the national interest.

SECOND CARRIER HORNET TO BE LAUNCHED AUG. 30

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., Aug. 25—(P)—The navy's second aircraft carrier, Hornet, will be launched here Aug. 30 to replace the fighting flat-top from whose flight deck Brig. Gen. Jimmy Doolittle and his army fliers took off to bomb Tokyo in April of last year.

The new ship's predecessor which was also built at the Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Company plant, was sunk in the Santa Cruz Islands after striking savage blows at the Japanese for five months.

2. The best way for the United States to protect its interests is by armaments, by taking naval and air bases throughout the world, by relying solely on its own strength and not to any extent on promises by other countries or on treaties.

3. In order to protect itself the United States must have agreements with other nations.

4. England's interest conflicts with ours so much that cooperation with her after the war is impossible.

5. Foreign policy problems of the United States would be solved if we join an international organization.

6. The United States should wait to form its foreign policy until other nations decide theirs.

7. The United States is a world power and should accept its share of responsibility for promoting international law and order.

8. All nations should disarm to a point where no one nation or reasonable combination of nations would have a force as large as an international police force.

9. Agreement among Great Britain, Russia, China and the United States must precede the formation of an international organization.

10. Commitments with other nations for mutual security are the kind of "entangling alliances" Jefferson and Washington warned the United States to avoid.

Pride Pressure on Yankees After 12 Series in a Row

BY JUDSON BAILEY
By The Associated Press
The heat is on the New York Yankees today.
Before you take another look at the baseball standings, give us time to explain it's the pressure of pride which is bearing heavily on the American league champions.
They need to take both ends of a doubleheader at Detroit today to win the seven-game series and extend their record performance to victory in 12 consecutive series.
This is a feat never accomplished even by the famous Yankees of other years and is a dearly sought goal by the 1943 club.

-Spying- On Sports By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

NEW YORK, Aug. 25—(AP)—If the Cubs beat out the Dodgers for fourth place this year, it will be the second time the western clubs have topped all four first-division berths in the National League. . . . In 1926 it was St. Louis, Cincinnati, Pittsburgh and Chicago. . . . Greg Rice admits he has had to be pumped out a couple of times trying to learn to swim since he joined the Maritime Service. . . . But think of all the guys who pumped themselves out trying to keep up with Rice.

REDS WIN LAST GAME IN THE EAST

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 25—(AP)—The Cincinnati Reds headed for home at the conclusion of their most successful road trip this season.
The Reds ended their 21-game trip through the East, in which they won 15 and lost 6, by knocking off the Philadelphia Phillies last night, 4 to 2.
Lefty Clyde Shoun, who relieved Johnny Vander Meer in the fourth inning when the latter developed a blister on one of the fingers of his throwing hand, was credited with the victory—his fifth of the trip and eleventh of the season.
The Phillies out-hit the Cincinnati, 10 to 6, but they left 10 men standing on the runways. Dick Barrett, who was on the mound for the Phillies, out-pitched both Vander Meer and Shoun but a wild throw by the Phils' $25,000 rookie shortstop, Ray Hamrick, gave the Reds three unearned runs in the third inning.
The Reds performed brilliantly afield. Vander Meer started the club's 146th doubleplay of the season in the fourth and Eddie Miller, Steve Mesner and Bert Haas came up with neat fielding exhibitions to keep the threatening Phils away from the home plate.
The Phillies got two runs in their half of the third on a walk, a single and a double by Coaker Triplett. In the ninth the Reds made an insurance tally on three singles, two of them infield blows.

The Boston Red Sox of 1906 and the Athletics of 1916 were the only other American league clubs to drop 20 straight.

Washington strengthened its grasp on second place by beating the St. Louis Browns 10-4 as Clayton Heafner pitched four-hit ball. The Boston Red Sox and Cleveland Indians divided, with Cleveland capturing the first game 5-2 on Allie Reynolds' five-hit hurling and the Red Sox surging back to a 7-0 shutout with Heber (Dick) Newsome producing a two-hit masterpiece.
In the National League the St. Louis Cardinals edged the Boston Braves 1-0 when Stan Musial tripled a run home in the 10th inning.
Truett (Rip) Sewell was given his 19th success against five defeats as the Pittsburgh Pirates took a slugging session from the Brooklyn Dodgers 9-6 in a twilight game abbreviated to six innings by darkness.
A two-run ninth-inning homer by Buster Maynard gave the New York Giants an 8-7 decision over the Chicago Cubs in the first game of a doubleheader, but Ed Hanzyszewski pitched a four-hitter to win the nightcap 6-1 for the Bruins and Cincinnati competed a sweep of its series at Philadelphia with a 4-2 triumph in a night game.

Grand American Is Under Way on Wartime Basis

By FRITZ HOWELL
VANDALIA, O., Aug. 25—(AP)—Usually dreamy Vandalia stuffed cotton in its ears today as more than 400 marksmen, including about 50 from the armed services, opened fire with 12-gauge shotguns in a three-day quest of gold and glory at the 44th Grand American trapshoot.
A dozen national champions were up for decision as the field, slashed somewhat by gasoline rationing and travel restrictions, blazed away at 200 16-yard clay targets in the opening event.
The big barrage, on a "bring-your-own-shells" basis for the first time in history, was pared to three days from the usual eight, while the program was cut from 1900 targets to 500.

FOOTBALL SEASON IS UNDER WAY

By DAVE HOFF
EVANSTON, Ill., Aug. 25—(AP)—It's kickoff time for the 1943 football season.
The college all-stars and a professional team—this year the Washington Redskins—are providing the usual dramatic and colorful start tonight as they have for the last 10 years.
It's a new setting, Dyche Stadium on the Northwestern University campus, and a smaller crowd, although a sellout throng of 50,000, that will herald the opening of the new campaign. The game was moved here from Chicago's Soldier Field, site of the previous nine games and where 101,000 saw last year's contest—but it's the same big show.
This is the football season preview—the first two teams of the year to face each other in formal competition.
One is a member of the National Football League, whose doom was considered certain last winter just after these same Redskins had beaten the Chicago Bears for the championship which entitled them to a place in tonight's game.
The other is a great, powerful array of collegians—many of them on leave from the various armed services—an aggregation that doubting Thomases said last spring could never be assembled.
Despite the smaller attendance the game is expected to gross approximately $200,000, a record for the series. Proceeds will go to the Chicago Servicemen's centers.
Kickoff time is 8:30 P. M. (C. W.T.)

Naval Air Center Abandons Football
CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP)—The Naval Air Training Center here will have no "varsity" football team, Lieut. Comdr. Frank C. Lane has announced.
"The main reason for our decision is the stepped-up training program of cadets here," says Lane.
The team won four games, tied one and lost three against Southwest Conference and Service eleven last season.

GRAIN MARKET NEWS SUMMARY

CHICAGO, Aug. 25—AP—Grains retreated toward the close today after advancing as much as 2 cents in rye on a government weather report noting deterioration of the corn crop in some sections of the country. Rye and oats held part of their gains, but wheat slumped to around the previous close.
Profit-taking was considered mainly responsible for the set-back near the close. Reports that only scattered small lot sales were taking place in the flour market dampened the enthusiasm in the wheat pit. Buying of oats and rye came mainly through commission houses and, despite the strong undertone, trade was not active.
At the close wheat was ¼ lower to ½ higher, September $1.44½, oats were unchanged to ¼ higher, September $1.01½-¼.

DAY'S ACTIVITIES IN WALL STREET

NEW YORK, Aug. 25—AP—Progress was slight in the stock market today although the uptrend begun in Tuesday's session continued.
Rubbers, rails and steels were in the forefront toward the fourth hour, and rains ranged from small fractions to around a point.
Numerous blue chips crossed the tap only once or twice during the forenoon.
Beryllium-copper is replacing bronze and steel in many war uses.
Dominica was called Sunday island by Columbus because he sighted it on that day in 1493.

Only Military Victory Will End War, Speaker Says

NATIVE GERMAN SPEAKS BEFORE TWO CLUBS HERE

Rotarians Hear Dr. Guenther At Noon Meeting and Lions in Evening

Only a decisive military victory and unconditional surrender of the Axis armies can break the stranglehold of Hitler and German militarism on Germany and the occupied countries, Rotarians and Lions were told by a man who lived in Germany during the period when the Nazis were rising to power.

A graphic picture of many conditions which now control the German people and an explanation of the psychology which causes many with anti-Nazi feelings to remain docile under present Nazi influences were presented to the Rotarians at their regular Tuesday noon luncheon meeting and the Lions at their supper meeting at the Country Club Tuesday evening by Dr. Leonhart Guenther. He gave essentially the same talk before both of the service clubs here.

Dr. Guenther came to the United States from Germany shortly before the outbreak of the present global war. He applied for American citizenship papers the first day he landed in this country and expects to become an American citizen within a year.

Born and educated in Germany he became a corporation counsel for a German branch of a Swiss business house and although he was classified as a "non-Aryan" due to his Jewish blood on his mother's side, his Swiss employer obtained a temporary permit to use Guenther's services until 1938. He then had opportunity to observe five years of the totalitarian Nazi life as a close and unsuspected eyewitness. He was able to obtain permission to leave Germany and come to this country with his wife when he realized what was happening in his homeland. His family history in Germany extends back for a period of nearly 300 years, he said.

One of the interesting statements which the speaker made was regarding the unspoken division of the German population with reference to Hitler and the Nazi form of government. While no one has accurate statistics, he asserted, regarding the number of people who are definitely for or against the Nazi regime, which is really the combination of the Nationalist and Socialist groups, he expressed the opinion that a vast majority of the younger people up to 30 years of age who had been carefully trained in the Nazi philosophy, were enthusiastic followers of that type of government because they believed, through their teaching, that it was the most practicable form of government for the future of Germany. Many of the older people, he said, did not share this view but were powerless to resist, while quite a large group were "on the fence" and were seeking to play safe by refusing to commit themselves too far to any course, although to make matters easier for themselves they were apparently "going along" with Nazi orders.

"Do not depend upon the collapse of German morale for a victory in this war," Guenther declared. "While German morale is undoubtedly low, the people there have learned to take orders and their morale will not cause a collapse under a dictatorship which holds people helpless no matter what their ideas may be. Only a military victory over Germany will end this war. However, when the German soldiers definitely see defeat by other military powers, they will surrender quickly."

The speaker described Hitler as a strange combination of mystical dreamer and a fanatic and brutal soldier. "To use your American slang term," he asserted, "Hitler may be 'screwed' but is not a 'nut'."

He described Goering as more despicable than Hitler because he stands for Hitler's worst side while attempting to paint a different picture of himself as a reasonable, good natured and able type, to the world at large. Regarding Goebbels, the Nazi propaganda chief, he had nothing but contempt for his deceit and lies, he said, but gave him credit for being shrewd and brainy.

At the conclusion of Guenther's talk, President Halliday called upon Attorney Ed Bush for a response and the latter declared that this speaker had helped clear up some of the confusion in the minds of his hearers about the people of Germany.

AIRPORT NEED HERE STRESSED AT LIONS CLUB

'Put Washington C. H. on Map' After War Is Plea from One of Members

Paul Van Voorhis and W. L. O'Brien each made a brief talk before Dr. Leonhart Guenther spoke at the Lion's Club meeting Tuesday night at the Country Club.

Van Voorhis spoke of the need for an airport here. He stressed the probability of swift development of the aircraft industry and explained that an airport established now would "put Washington C. H. on the map" when feeder lines are established for trunk airlines. He pointed out that the airport could be used by commercial passenger and freight lines, by private owners and industries which would have fleets of freight planes after the war.

"Plenty of men in the flying forces of the army now are going to want to keep right on flying their private planes after the war," he asserted. "We've got to establish an airport somehow—somewhere—here."

W. L. O'Brien made an appeal to the Lion's Club to volunteer their assistance in helping the nation board, with the gasoline renewal rush. He also asked that each member find volunteers for helping among his friends.

Six guests attended the meeting and Charles Orr, assistant manager of J. C. Penney's store, was introduced as the newest member of the club.

Rev. E. DeVer Walker of Brilliant, Howard Thompson, William Hook, Richard Willis and Robert Krout were the six guests at the meeting.

ed, "Hitler may be 'screwed' but is not a 'nut'."

He described Goering as more despicable than Hitler because he stands for Hitler's worst side while attempting to paint a different picture of himself as a reasonable, good natured and able type, to the world at large. Regarding Goebbels, the Nazi propaganda chief, he had nothing but contempt for his deceit and lies, he said, but gave him credit for being shrewd and brainy.

CANNING SEASON AT PLANTS HERE IS NOW AT PEAK

Quality of Both Corn and Tomatoes Described as Of 'Fine Quality'

The corn pack at both the Ladoga and Fayette canning factories here is coming along well so far, according to Harry Hyer and William M. Campbell, managers of the two companies. "We're busy as can be right now and packing a fine quality of corn," said Hyer in speaking of the pack at Ladoga. "We've had plenty of help so far." He indicated that the lima bean pack would begin sometime next week and run along with the corn pack for the next three weeks. The Fayette company is also packing a fine quality of corn, according to Campbell. "The planting was so uneven this year that it made the pack later than usual," Campbell said. "Our tomatoes are very slow in coming in this year, but the quality is very nice as is the quality of the corn," he added. Campbell indicated that the tomato pack would last until frost when the pumpkin pack will begin.
